Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

Radium is a white powder that has the appearance of table salt.

A pound of it is worth a thousand pounds of gold. Radium is very expensive because it is very scarce. A pinch of it is worth a small fortune. There are only a few spoons in the world. But radium is so potent that excess amounts are dangerous. A pound or two gathered in one spot will kill anyone who approaches.

With radium, scientists hope to learn how to change one element into another. Changing other metals into gold will be
