  - iv) Pt. Jawahar Lal Nehru.

19.

Harrappa Civilisation was a bronze aged civilisation, which existed for a long period of time for about 8500 to 1300 BC. It was known by excavation of its first site Harrappa by Daya Ram Sahni in 1921. Mohenjodaro was later excavated by Rakhal Das Banerjee in 1922.

Mohenjodaro was the largest site of the civilisation. It was a major centre of trade and commerce. Located on the bank of river Indus, it had several great features like granary, urban town planning, graveyard and the great bath. Following are the features of the great bath of Mohenjodaro:-

i) Structure:- The great bath found in Mohenjodaro has a rectangular shape.

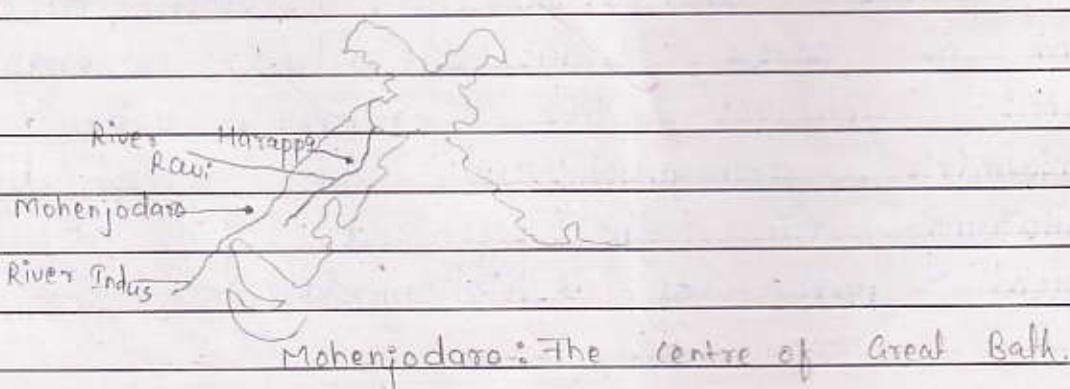

ii) Dimension:- The great bath is of  $180 \times 180$  dimension.

iii) Role:- It was perhaps used for bathing purpose. Its large size suggests that it could keep large amount of water.

iv) Features:- It has two gates to enter both in east as well as in west. It is 120 m long.

In this way the great bath had great importance in the life of harappa, such a big structure made with bricks is highly appreciable. It is one of the best feature of the civilization.

20. Buddhism emerged in India during the 6th century B.C. It was founded by Gautam Buddha also known as Buddha the enlightened one. It gave the message of peace, non-violence and truthfulness to the whole world but it faced its split into two sects Hinayana and Mahayana following its difference feature:-

Hinayana

Mahayana

- i) It literally means the lesser wheel.
- ii) It believed in the olden principles of Buddhism.
- iii) They preferred pali language.
- iv) They believed that Buddha must be worshipped in idol form.
- v) It was the Northern Buddhism (Korea, China, Japan)
- i) It literally means the giant wheel.
- ii) It believed in the new theories.
- iii) They preferred Sanskrit language.
- iv) They believed in the heavenliness of Buddha.
- v) It was the Southern Buddhism (Sri Lanka, Indonesia)

These two sects split during the youth Buddhist council, held at Kundalavan, Kashmir during the reign of Kushan emperor Kaniska. Though today Buddhism has lost its glory but still in the pages of history its great principles and thoughts are present.

21. India is a vast country. Its history is very vivid and full of diversities. It is a land of ~~the~~ people who have glorified the history through their great works. Temples are the main centres where god are worshipped. During early ages they were the centres of learning, the temple architecture in early period of India was:-

- i) Mauryan Period:- During this the caves used as temples, the oldest temple is of the Barabar Caves in Bihar.
- ii) Gupta Period :- Gupta period was the 'golden age'. During this the temple architecture began. The temple in Thanesi and is the best example.

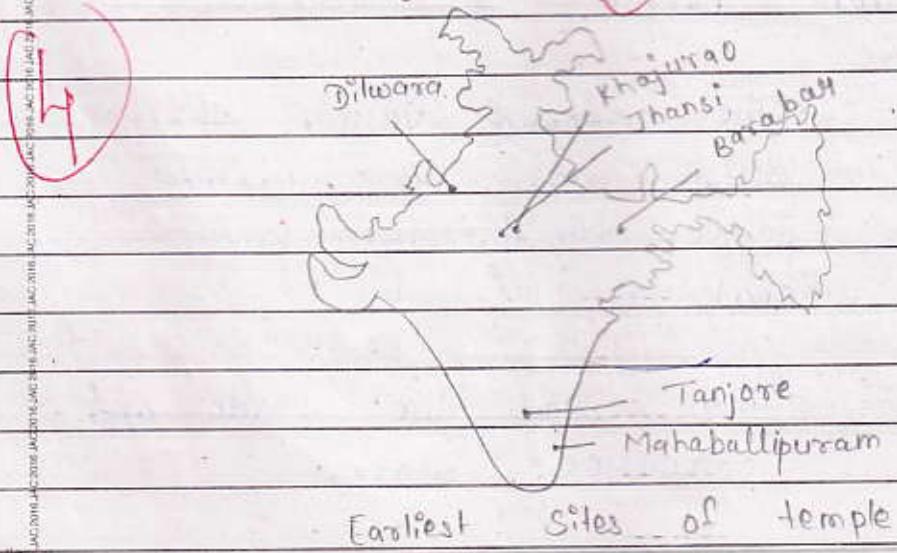

iii) Chola Period:- They were the rulers of South India. They used Dravid Style of temple architecture. e.g. Kailashnath Temple and at Tanjore and Mahaballipuram's temple.

iv) Chandela Period:- They were the great architects. They build Khajurao Temple.

v) Solanki:- They were perhaps the followers of Jainism. The giant statue at Gomateshwari and the Dilwara temple is the best example.

In this way the earliest temples in India were build during various periods in various styles such as Dravid, Vesari and Nagay. Which had sikhara on its top and gopura grish having idol.

Section- II

22 Al-Beruni was a foreign traveller who visited India in 1093 AD. He stayed here for a long period of time. He was the native of Uzbekistan. He wrote the famous book Kitab-ul-Hind also known as Tahqiq-e-Hind. It has 80 chapters. This book is considered as the best book.

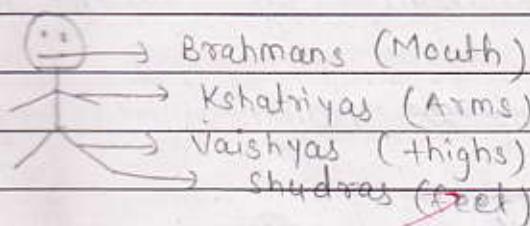

Al-Beruni described about the caste system of India which was one of the main theme of his book. In this he described the four varnas of the caste system:

- i) Brahmin:- The top most varna, most knowledgeable. Their work was to preach people.
- ii) Kshatriyas :- The second varna, their duty was to protect the common people. Mostly the kings belonged to Kshatriyas.
- iii) Vaishyas :- They did the trade and commerce work.

iv) Shudra :- They were the lowest Varnas.
They were considered as Untouchables.

He mentions that it is said that 'Brahmans originated from the mouth of Brahma, Kshatriyas from his arms, Vaishyas from thighs and Shudras from feet.'

4 In this way Al-Beruni describes about the caste system of India. He had compared this system with the society of Egypt. He stayed and observed these, and wrote in his travel account, which is a good source of history.

23. Vijaynagar means the 'city of victory'. It was established by Harihara and Bukka Raya in 1336 AD. They belonged to Sangam dynasty. It was the only Hindu Kingdom of south India. Vijaynagar was identified by the ruins of Hampi. One of the most famous ruler of the Empire was Krishna Dev Raya.

He belonged to Tuluva Dynasty. Following are his achievements:-

i) Coronation:- The coronation ceremony of Krishna Dev Raya was done by Timmanna who later became his prime minister, in year 1509. Coronation was done on the occasion of Janmashtami.

ii) Adminisat~~t~~ Administration:- He was an able administrator.

He introduced Nayak and Amarnayak system. He ruled for about 20 years.

iii) State Victory:- He captured the Raichur Doab in 1512, he also captured Orissa in 1514 AD. for this he built Mahanumi Dibba and Lotus Temple combinedly called as House of Victory.

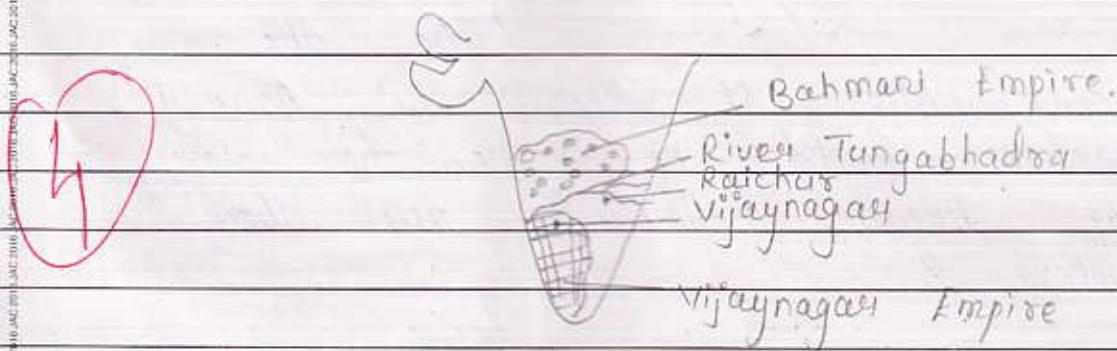

iv) Art and Literature:- He made gopurams and he was a great scholar so he wrote Amuktamalyada and a Sanskrit Drama.

v) Titles:- He was considered as Hero by the south Indians. He achieved the titles of Mori Rayaca Ganda and Andhra Bhoja.

vi) Other Achievements:- He fortified the empire in seven layers. Domingo Paez and Duarte Barbosa visited during his region. He made Kamlapuram tank and Naglapuram (a city) in the name of his mother Nagla Devi.

In this way this great ruler was not only an able administrator but also a great scholar, architect, conqueror. He was the greatest of all rulers. He glorifies the name of India in the pages of History and even today the ballads of him are orally spoken widely in southern states.

24. Mughal rule was established in India after the first Battle of Panipat in 1526 AD! fought between Babur and Dīngīshīn Lodi. Babur with a small army defeated the huge army and established Mughal Empire in India. The Mughal Royal family had special status for women. The status of women was high and good.

The Royal women were divided into three parts:-

i) Begum:- Highest status of women. Mainly the women of rich and High Elite family.

ii) Agah:- They were lower than the Begums.

iii) Agahchās:- They were of lowest status. On the recommendation of Kings the Agah & Agahchās could be given the status of Begum. Following are their roles:-

a) Learning and Literature:- Nobel class women were great scholars. They wrote books. The best example is of Aulbadan Bano Begum, Humayun's sister who wrote Humayun-nama.

b) Architects:- They also contributed in architecture. The daughter of Shahjahan, Jahanara Begum, made the cutting of Chandni Chowk.

c) Administration:- The best example is of Nurjahan who contributed and made the Mughal Empire strong when Jahangir fell prey to luxuries. The coins had her figure.

In this way the Royal women contributed their best in the fields of various fields. They proved that women can also be a good administrator, writer, scholar, builder. They were perhaps the backbone as Jahangir himself said that 'I have given all my powers to Nurjahan, and now all I need is just a cheer of Alcohol and meat'. During this the way Nurjahan ruled is highly appreciable even the work of Aulbadan Bano Begum and Jahanara Begum is appreciable.

Section - III

Q5. Santhals were the settled cultivators. They were being settled in the Rajmahal hills during 1800 AD. They were settled after removing Paharias from the area who practised shifting agriculture. This was a clever plan of Britishers and when the Santhals realised it they started revolt. Following are the causes:-

- i) High taxes:- Santhals had to pay high taxes to Britishers, which was not easy for them.
- ii) Exploitation by British Zamindars:- The Britishers collected taxes through zamindars who exploited them badly.
- iii) Fear of losing land:- The constructor and the builders snatched the land of Santhals, who were also the bows of Britishers. So, the Santhals revolted against them.

iv) Protect themselves :- The britishers and people of outer groups behaved in bad manner with the women and men of Santhal tribe, so they started the revolt.

In this way the Santhals of Damin-e-koh or land surrounded with hilly hills started to revolt against britishers in the leadership of Sidhu, Kahlu, and Chand and Bhairav. It all happened in 1855 - 1856 AD. The britishers suppressed this revolt because of modern equipment but it shocked the britishers as they were being attacked by the common Indians.

National freedom movement in India was an historical event. It started from the revolt of 1857 and ended in 1947 after the independence of India. For this Mahatma Gandhi played a vital role. He launched several movements against Britishers, one of them was the civil disobedience movement which started with Dandi March.

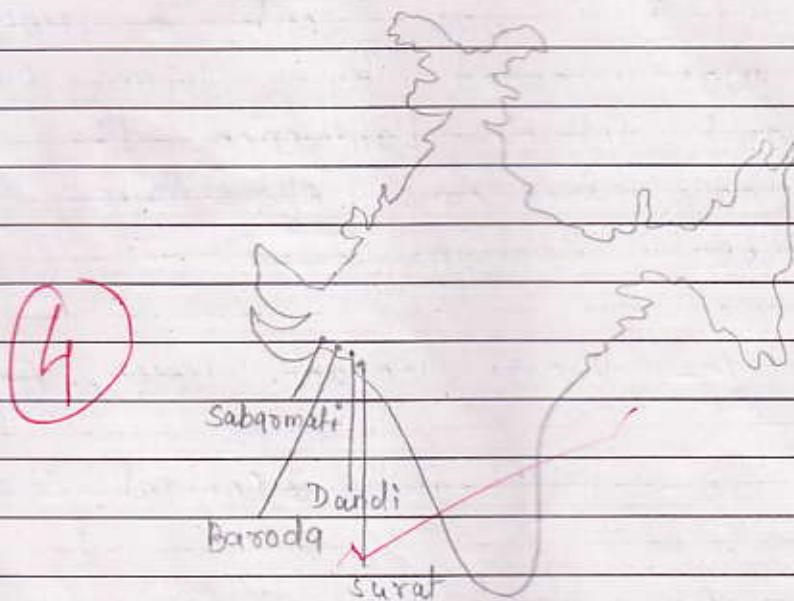

Dandi is a small village in Gujarat. It was a centre of salt formation, but the Britishers had implemented taxes over it. Gandhiji found it as a bad tax. He with his 78 followers started the March to Dandi on 24th April 1932. They covered the distance of 200 miles on foot.

After reaching Dandi on 24th April 1932 they broke the salt law by manufacturing salt. They were arrested by the Britishers. But the whole India started to revolt for making Gandhi free. Gandhi took salt as the symbol because it was the element used by each and every people.

By the truth and non-violence he made people realise that yes the british could be defeated.

Areas travelled by Gandhi during Salt March.

Q8. British came in India during the 18th century with a motive of trade and commerce but when they saw that India could be made colony they fought the Battle of Plassey (1757) and Battle of Buxar (1764) after which they got the way to establish their rule. But after the frequent revolt and increasing demand of India's freedom in 20th century they decided to make India free. But before this they sent various missions to India one of them was the Cabinet Mission. It came in India to give suggestion for the constitution of India.

It was sent in year 1946 and was headed by Stafford Cripps, Alexander and Pethick Lawrence. It proposed the freedom of united India under three sections :-

Section A - Bihar, Bengal, Orissa, Assam.

Section B - MP and Central States, Madras

Section C - North-Western Part, and Saurashtra, Baluchistan.

(1) Congress accepted the theory but Zinna opposed it as it does not proposed the theory of two nation which was divided India and Pakistan.

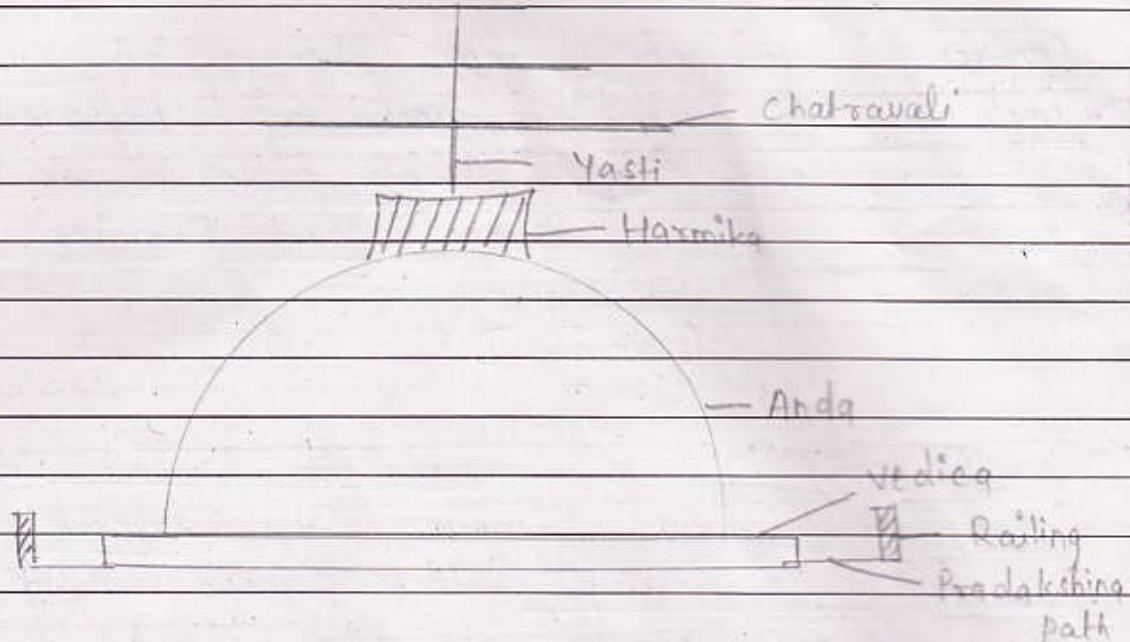

Group - D.

29. Stupa is a sanskrit word meaning 'Heap'. Stupa were the dome shaped structures. They were build by the kings, monks etc. They had a great importance in the Buddhism. The stupas were made with the following objectives :-

i) Protection of Buddha's body Remains:- The remains of Buddha's example - nails, ashes, hairs were safely kept by the followers in the stupas.

ii) for Buddhist Monks :- Buddhist Monks prayed and chanted in the stupas. They were the holy places for them.

Stupas were constructed in the following ways:-

- a) Vedica:- Vedica was the base of the stupa.
- b) Anda:- It was a dome shaped structure, which was a hall.
- c) Harmikas:- It was considered as the place of god.
- d) Yasti:- It was like a stick or rod.
- e) Chatravali:- It was like chatri to under which the god lived.
- f) Railing:- To separate stupa from the outer world railings were made.

g) Pradakshina Path:- It was the path made around anda to revolve or to take a round.

6 In this way the stupas were built which had great importance. Amaravati and Sanchi has the two older stupas.

30. Bhakti Movement in India started in 8th century and ended in 15th century. It was a reformation movement in the Hindu religion to make them free from orthodoxy views & traditions. It had great importance and effects following are some of them:-

Importance & Effects:-

- a) It had brought change in the thinking and living standard of people.
- b) It removed the Yajnas and Brahmanical Authority from the society.
- c) It gave a new status and provided equality in the society and lower caste's people.

- d) The feeling of brotherhood emerged among people.
- e) New philosophies and theories made the people to become practical.
- f) The caste difference was removed.
- g) The hindu religion got back its charm.
- h) People became more aware and practical for the east life.

In this way this great movement not only changed the life style but also safeguarded the Hindu religion for which several saints such as Guru Nanak, Kabir, Chaitanya Ma Prabhu, Mira Bai played a vital role. It was earlier in South India but later Ramanaanda brought it to North India.

31

India freedom struggle passed through various phases and movements which were headed by the nationalists. India became free from the Britishers after 200 years it was possible only because of this one of them is the Non-cooperation Movement.

It was launched by Mahatma Gandhi in year 1920. It was a resistance movement as under this:

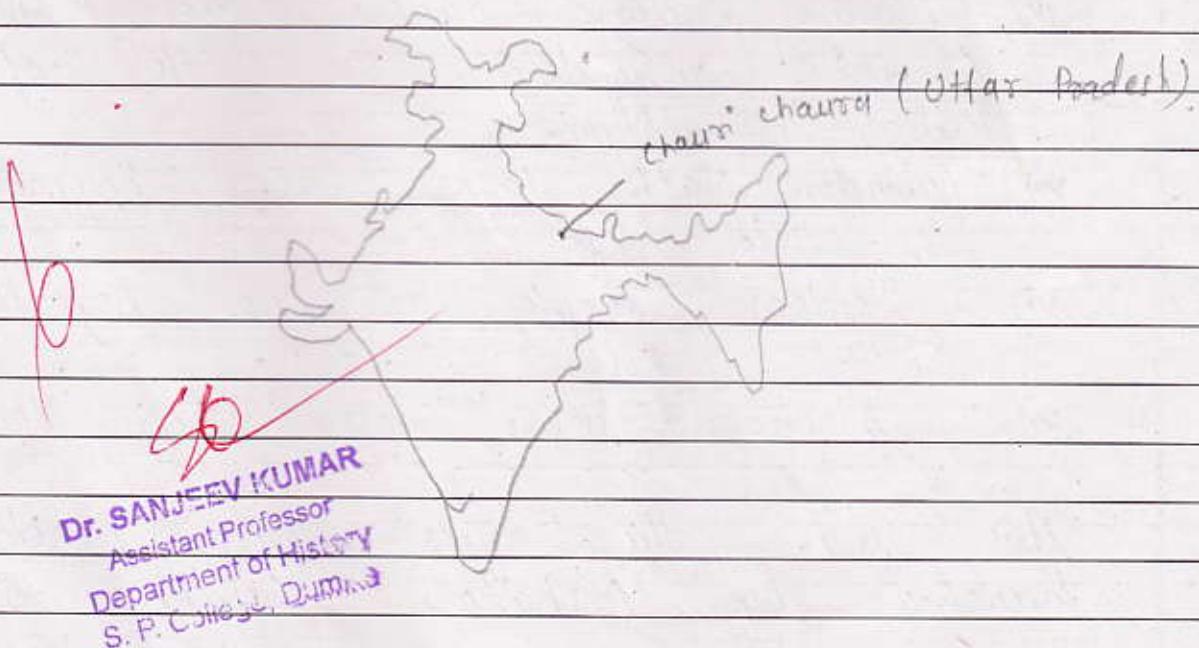

- i) Government Services were Boycotted
- ii) Schools, Colleges and institutions of Britishers were boycotted.
- iii) Foreign goods were burnt, and Swadeshi goods were used.
- iv) Many Indian leaders like Mahatma Gandhi surrendered the title of Kaiser-e-Hind.
- v) Rabindra Nath Tagore also boycotted the title of sir.
- vi) Students, people everyone boycotted British rule.
- vii) Elections were also boycotted.

This was the first mass movement launched by Mahatma Gandhi to make India free. It was to not cooperate britishers. Mahatma Gandhi thought that britishers are ruling this country only because of our support and if we don't support them they can't rule over us so he started this movement.

In 1922 due to a violence act at Chauri Chaura the Movement was suppressed, in which 21 police officers were burnt alive which hurted Gandhi. He never wanted violence in his movements. Though it was suppressed but it paved way for the other movements which finally made India free.
